

I am a father of three. This sunday morning I was awakened(10:30) by an extremely obnoxious telemarketer. I do understand that this is their job, but in my estimation, so is drug dealing. And in my estimation they are both crimes. I try to lead as quiet a life as possible. however, I am besieged with calls at all times of my home hours. People sounding younger than my eldest child asking for me by my first name... to me this is totally unacceptable. As is the practice of unsolicited sales pitches of products I would not bother to look at if given fair oppurtunity. Free speech is balanced by my right not to be bombarded with information I consider useless or to the extreme obnoxious.

Thank you for your attention in this matter,

Jim Scarbrough